

LORIOT announces the next edition of LORIOT Business Connect and launches the call for LoRaWAN® Smart Industry Solution Providers.

After the first edition in November dedicated to Smart City solutions LORIOT announces the next edition of LORIOT Business Connect, a digital matchmaking event, organised to bring together companies or public administrations with innovative and high impact IoT solutions.

The second edition will be dedicated to Smart Industry.

“The last few years are often described as the fourth industrial revolution, a digital revolution often referred to as Industry 4.0. A process of digital transformation and automation of traditional manufacturing and industrial practices resulting in a wide variety of solutions designed to optimise production processes, monitor and prevent machine failure as well as to reduce costs, resources utilization and environmental impact.”

Call for Solution Providers

Five companies, selected through a call open to all LoRaWAN® Smart Industry Solution Providers, will have the opportunity to pitch their solution in front of an audience of decision makers from companies, nationwide service providers and large industrial and manufacturing companies, that have already started their Industry 4.0 journey and are looking for new solutions to integrate.

Deadline for applications is the 21st of February 2021.
